

Cirtex Corp. Expands Video Hosting, Signs Exclusive Hosting Partnership with ClipBucket

NEW YORK (July 8., 2008) – Cirtex Corp. announced today it has bolstered its video hosting services through an exclusive partnership with ClipBucket (<http://www.clip-bucket.com>), an open source video sharing script, making it the project's official Web hosting partner. Cirtex Corp. operates two leading hosting brands, CirtexHosting (<http://www.cirtexhosting.com>) and HostV (<http://www.hostv.com>).

As partners, CirtexHosting and HostV are the preferred providers to host and support installations of Clipbucket Lite, a free, YouTube-like video sharing script written in PHP. ClipBucket was developed by Jahanzeb and Arslan Hassan, two brothers. CirtexHosting and HostV customers can take advantage of ClipBucket in addition to a variety of other video hosting features, including FFMEG, MEncoder, and FLVTool. These features allow ordinary developers and users to utilize advanced video processing engines.

“We announced our commitment to advanced video hosting nearly three years ago, and we continue to provide our clients with the latest features and application support they need to succeed in this important area,” said John Xie, President of Cirtex Corp. “Today's partnership provides our clients with the support they need to take advantage of this next-generation script that allows small developers to easily embrace video sharing.”

CirtexHosting will provide its clients with a custom-developed, one-click auto installer within cPanel for ClipBucket Lite. The script utilizes the Smarty Template Engine and is fully optimized for accessibility and search engine indexing.

CirtexHosting now hosts more than 15,000 Web sites internationally. HostV (<http://www.hostv.com>) hosts thousands of sites on several hundred Virtual Private Servers.
